RIDING THE ROLLER COASTER or: How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love Uncertainty

I'm not sure exactly why, but most of the newspaper and magazine articles I've read lately have been about uncertainty.

Uncertainty is commonly defined as being in a state of having limited knowledge either of the current state of affairs, or a future outcome. Or how about something coming up that has more than one possible outcome? When one or more of those outcomes could be bad, we encounter the companion condition called risk. Sounds kind of scary doesn't it?

Yogi Berra once said: "When you come to a fork in the road, you should take it." Unfortunately he didn't tell us which way to proceed.

We live with continual uncertainty. The Mayans predicting the end of the world (Whew, they missed on that one). Will we go over the fiscal cliff? (At least we didn't on the first one). Will our bond issue pass? Will it rain this week? (Maybe not such a good example of uncertainty).

At KCDA we deal with our uncertain environment by stepping back to look into our organizational mirror and ask ourselves the basic question, "What are we trying to accomplish?" That question forces us to focus on our few vital areas as we strive to provide the best possible outcomes for our members:

- Saving our members money
- Saving our members time
- Being convenient and easy to work with
- Being safe to use

We save our members money by purchasing in volume and keeping our costs low. We leverage the buying power of our members throughout the Northwest, and on several of our contracts the additional volume of co-ops in 25 other states through our membership in the Association of Educational Purchasing Agencies (AEPA).

We save you time and effort by bidding and awarding contracts on your behalf. Each year KCDA issues over ninety Invitations to Bid for everything from the consumable items centrally carried for you in our warehouse, to such complex contracts as the ones for portable classrooms, athletic field lighting or telephone systems.

We offer the convenience of information available on our website and our Supply Link on-line ordering, the ease of working with our Customer Service and Field Representatives, and the accurate and timely shipping from our warehouse.

And lastly, we provide the security of knowing that KCDA has complied with all bidding and procurement laws to protect our members, and that we continually monitor contracts to ensure vendor compliance.

So while we still don't know about the weather, the stock market or the date of the next big earthquake, we can provide the certainty that comes from focus. At KCDA we are focused on serving you, and that's one thing you can count on for certain.

Happy New Year!

Welcome...

We are pleased to welcome Paula Schilling as our new Contract & Procurement Specialist. East Valley School District transitions to K-8 schools despite bond failure

East Valley School District is now in their second year of a three year plan to transition to K-8 schools, replacing the former elementary (K-5) and middle school (6-8) model. The District's failure to pass a $33M bond in April 2011 forced them to consider other construction options to realize their new K-8 model. With the help of KCDA's modular building contract, the District choose to install modular buildings at each of their four elementary schools to allow for the transitions of middle school students into the K-8 model. The units have a projected 40 year life and are completely self-contained.

According to EVSD News, the district found that a K-8 model fosters increased student learning and improved behavior. Superintendent John Glenewinkel says "math scores are up at every grade level, absenteeism is down and the changes we've seen in student behavior are absolutely extraordinary. In 2010-11, the last year of the old model, 92 sixth-graders were suspended or expelled at some point in the year. Last year, in the first year of the new model, there were only 12 suspensions among our sixth-graders – an 87% reduction." The district plans to use the existing middle school space for student enrichment activities, athletics, and community uses as well as consolidating a number of district offices.

As a founding member of the Association of Educational Purchasing Agencies (AEPA), KCDA participates in national bids that combine the purchasing volume of 25 million students into a single locally and nationally recognized purchasing solicitation. The advantage of using AEPA is that KCDA awards the contracts with terms and conditions that are tailored to meet Washington's specific legal requirements. Since KCDA is owned by Washington's Public School Districts, every dollar spent using KCDA contracts increases our purchasing power and helps us get lower pricing to our members. More importantly, the dollars spent stay in the Northwest instead of ending up in some other part of the country.

For more information on KCDA's awarded contracts, please contact Dave Mahalko, Director of Marketing at 1-800-422-5019 Ext 117 or visit our website at www.kcda.org.
