OUR STORY

School districts of every size across the United States depend on AngelTrax mobile video surveillance solutions to promote student and driver safety with an objective eyewitness account of what happens on the school bus.

In 2000, the first AngelTrax camera and recording components were installed in a local short line rail system to meet the owner's need to verify track conditions. Today, AngelTrax mobile video surveillance solutions are utilized in multiple transportation industries throughout the U.S. and abroad to increase passenger safety and reduce liability.
